GOVT WATCH

Helping and Inspiring the People's Movement

TO ATTAIN TRUE & LASTING PROGRESS, WE NEED A TRANSPARENT AND HONEST ELECTORAL SYSTEM

GOVT WATCH has stated that the greatest legacy that they could leave the Filipinos when he steps down in 2016 is a clean electoral system.

GOVT WATCH fully supports Commission on Elections (COMELEC) and suggests the following:

1. That COMELEC conduct an audit of voters info under the same scrutiny as the audit for non-prosecuting Party of organizations.
2. That COMELEC keep their updated and accurate of any new technology that threatens poll information.
3. That COMELEC conduct an audit and participate in the testing of the automated election system, including the components and processes that will be used in 2010 Presidential Elections.
4. That COMELEC conduct an audit and participate in the testing of the automated election system, including the components and processes that will be used in 2010 Presidential Elections.

A RANDOM MANUAL AUDIT MANUAL IN 2010 MUST BE UNOBSERVED AS MANDATED UNDER SECTION 24 OF RA 8187 (COMBINED ELECTRONIC)

The BSA, under testing mandated by law, must be undertaken because of potential weaknesses in our existing automated election system including improperly designed source codes, the possibility of hacking, and hardware/software vulnerabilities.

1. BSA must be done immediately after the closing of polls & randomly chosen and lock.
2. The protection of precinct must be strengthened and computers with proper security techniques.
3. Should observations be compromised, the next course must be identified.
4. An audit trail must be documented and readily available.

GOVT WATCH WILL WORK CLOSELY WITH COMELEC AND OTHER SOCIO-COMIC ORGANIZATIONS INCLUDING NAMREL DURING THE RANDOM MANUAL AUDIT

1. NAMREL has developed procedures for a comprehensive (pre, during, and post) audit in 2007 and has already conducted a pilot project that is 2010.
2. NAMREL is a pioneer in citizens and election monitoring in the world. It has helped in the formation of similar groups in 10 countries, and has been instrumental for the National Freedom House.

We encourage Mayor and Commissioners to focus almost in this task for it is our strong belief that a transparent, honest, and credible electoral system is crucial in upholding true and lasting progress.

Sensitivity to Nature springs from cardinal's simplicity

By Tom Ichniowski, Washington Post Staff Writer
 Cardinal Timothy Dolan's simple, direct approach to the issues of the day is a refreshing change from the more complex and often contradictory positions of other high-ranking church officials. Dolan's simplicity is not just a matter of style, but of substance. He speaks in plain language, and his actions are guided by a clear sense of right and wrong. This is a man who is not afraid to take a stand, and who is willing to be misunderstood in the process. His simplicity is a strength, and it is one that is sorely needed in a world that is so often confused and uncertain.

Impasse on bill

By [Name], Washington Post Staff Writer
 The bill is a significant piece of legislation, and it is important that it be passed. However, there are several obstacles that are preventing it from moving forward. One of the main issues is the lack of consensus among the members of Congress. There are also concerns about the timing of the bill, and whether it is the right moment to pass it. Despite these challenges, the bill's supporters are determined to see it through.

Obama or Romney Who stands to lose the most from megadisaster?

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — President Barack Obama and his challenger, Republican Mitt Romney, are both expected to face a megadisaster in the form of a massive earthquake and tsunami in the Pacific Northwest, which could cause billions of dollars in damage and thousands of deaths.

Obama's administration has been criticized for its handling of the 2010 earthquake in Haiti, which killed more than 230,000 people and left millions homeless. Romney, on the other hand, has been praised for his quick response to the earthquake in Chile in 2010, which killed more than 800 people.

Obama's administration has also been criticized for its handling of the 2011 earthquake in Japan, which killed more than 15,000 people and caused billions of dollars in damage. Romney, on the other hand, has been praised for his quick response to the earthquake in Chile in 2010, which killed more than 800 people.

But, what will be the impact of the earthquake
on the U.S. economy?
The answer is, it will be a disaster. The U.S.
economy is already in a state of crisis, and the earthquake will make it worse.

US envoy urges China to review its policies toward Tibetans

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 — The United States has urged China to review its policies toward Tibetans, saying the country's actions in the region are "incompatible with the basic principles of international law and the rights of the Tibetan people." The statement, issued by the State Department, comes as the Chinese government continues to crack down on dissent in the region, including the arrest of several prominent Tibetan activists.

The State Department said that the Chinese government's policies in Tibet are "incompatible with the basic principles of international law and the rights of the Tibetan people." The statement also expressed concern over the Chinese government's actions in the region, including the arrest of several prominent Tibetan activists.

The Chinese government has long claimed that Tibet is an integral part of China and that any moves toward independence are a threat to the country's territorial integrity. However, the United States and other Western countries have long supported the Tibetan people's right to self-determination.

The State Department's statement is part of a broader effort to pressure China to improve its human rights record. The department has also expressed concern over the Chinese government's actions in Xinjiang and Hong Kong.

Meningitis outbreak spreads to 19 states; Greek editor stands trial over list of Swiss bank accounts

Haiti rain bans all protests

HAITI — Heavy rain in Haiti has banned all protests and demonstrations, as the government seeks to maintain order during a period of political uncertainty. The rain has caused flooding in several areas, and the government has issued orders for all public gatherings to be canceled.

The protests were part of a larger movement for political reform and transparency. Protesters were demanding the resignation of the president and the implementation of reforms to the judicial system.

The government has been accused of corruption and repression, and the protests have gained momentum in recent weeks. The rain has provided a temporary reprieve for the government, but the underlying issues remain unresolved.

HAUT-KIVU, DRC — A deadly outbreak of meningitis has spread to 19 states in the Democratic Republic of the Congo, prompting a global health alert. The disease has caused several deaths and is spreading rapidly among the population.

Health officials are working to contain the outbreak by distributing vaccines and providing medical treatment. They are also conducting investigations to determine the source of the infection.

The outbreak is a significant concern for the region, as meningitis is a highly contagious and potentially fatal disease. It is caused by bacteria that enter the bloodstream and travel to the meninges, the protective layers of the brain.

Editor of the Greek newspaper

ATHENS — A Greek newspaper editor is standing trial over the publication of a list of Swiss bank accounts, which the government claims is a breach of national security. The editor is accused of leaking information that could harm the country's financial interests.

The list of accounts was published in a newspaper and contained names and addresses of individuals and companies. The government has accused the editor of acting in collusion with foreign forces to undermine the country's economy.

The trial is part of a broader investigation into the leak. The government is also looking into the role of other individuals and organizations involved in the publication of the list.

US Supreme Court skeptical about tossing surveillance suit

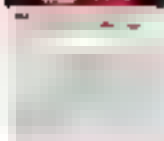

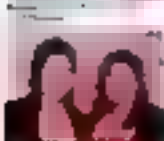

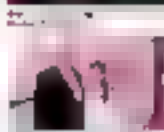

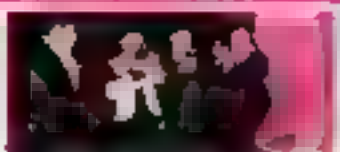

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27 — The US Supreme Court is skeptical about tossing a lawsuit filed by a group of citizens against the federal government, which claims the government has engaged in illegal surveillance. The court is expected to hear arguments on the case in the coming months.

The lawsuit, filed by a group of citizens, alleges that the government has conducted extensive surveillance of the plaintiffs without proper legal authorization. The group is seeking damages and a ruling that the surveillance was illegal.

The government has defended its actions, claiming that the surveillance was necessary for national security. It has argued that the plaintiffs have not provided sufficient evidence to prove their claims.

The case is part of a larger debate over the balance between civil liberties and national security. The Supreme Court has previously ruled on cases involving surveillance and privacy rights.

PH consumers

PH consumers are increasingly turning to digital platforms for their shopping needs, a trend that has reshaped the retail landscape in the Philippines. This shift is driven by the convenience of online shopping, the availability of a wider range of products, and the competitive pricing often found on e-commerce sites.

Major e-commerce players like Lazada and Shopee have gained significant market share, offering consumers a seamless shopping experience from browsing to delivery. These platforms have also introduced various promotional activities, such as flash sales and discounts, to attract and retain customers.

However, the rise of digital shopping has not completely replaced traditional brick-and-mortar stores. Many consumers still value the ability to physically inspect products before purchasing, especially for items like clothing and electronics. As a result, retailers are adopting an omnichannel approach, integrating online and offline channels to provide a cohesive shopping experience.

The growing digital shopping habit is also influencing the behavior of traditional retailers. Many are now offering online services, such as home delivery and click-and-collect, to compete with e-commerce giants. This integration is essential for retailers to stay relevant in a market where digital convenience is a key factor in consumer decision-making.

Overall, the digital shopping trend in the Philippines is expected to continue, with more consumers embracing online platforms for their daily needs. Retailers who adapt to this changing landscape by offering a seamless omnichannel experience will be better positioned to succeed in the future.

Everything you need to know about a Caesarean section

What is a C-section?

A Caesarean section (C-section) is a surgical procedure to deliver a baby through an incision in the mother's abdomen and uterus. It is often performed when there are complications during a vaginal birth, such as breech position, fetal distress, or a failed attempt at vaginal delivery.

When is a C-section recommended?

Doctors may recommend a C-section for various reasons, including:

- Breech position: The baby is positioned head-down but feet or buttocks first.
- Fetal distress: Signs of oxygen deprivation or other complications during labor.
- Failed induction: When attempts to start or progress labor through medication or other methods are unsuccessful.
- Placental issues: Problems with the placenta, such as placenta previa or placental abruption.
- Maternal health: Conditions like high blood pressure, diabetes, or a previous C-section that may increase the risk of complications during a vaginal birth.
- Obstructed labor: When the baby's head is not moving through the birth canal as expected.

Risks of a C-section

While C-sections are generally safe, they do carry some risks, including:

- Increased risk of infection: Both for the mother and the baby.
- Bleeding: Excessive blood loss during or after surgery.
- Clotting: Deep vein thrombosis or pulmonary embolism.
- Adhesions: Scar tissue that can form after surgery, potentially causing pain or complications in future pregnancies.
- Longer recovery time: Compared to a vaginal birth, a C-section typically requires a longer hospital stay and recovery period.
- Future pregnancies: A history of C-section may affect the options for subsequent deliveries.

Preparing for a C-section

If you are scheduled for a C-section, your healthcare provider will provide specific instructions. This may include:

- Fast: Not eating or drinking for a certain period before surgery.
- Medications: Taking or avoiding certain medications.
- Hygiene: Showering with an antiseptic soap.
- Support: Having someone to help you with transportation and care at home.

Recovery after a C-section

After the surgery, you will be monitored in a recovery room. Once you are stable, you will be moved to a hospital room. Recovery typically involves:

- Pain management: Using prescribed painkillers.
- Wound care: Keeping the incision site clean and dry.
- Activity: Gradually increasing movement to prevent complications like blood clots.
- Feeding: Starting with small amounts of breast milk or formula.
- Discharge: Planning for home care and support.

Postpartum care

After a C-section, you will need to take extra care of your body. This includes:

- Wound care: Monitoring for signs of infection, such as redness, swelling, or discharge.
- Pain management: Using painkillers as directed.
- Activity: Avoiding heavy lifting and strenuous activities for several weeks.
- Feeding: Establishing a feeding routine for your baby.
- Emotional support: Seeking help if you experience postpartum depression or anxiety.

When to call your doctor

Contact your healthcare provider immediately if you experience any of the following:

- Heavy bleeding or large clots.
- Severe pain or tenderness at the incision site.
- Redness, swelling, or pus at the wound.
- High fever or chills.
- Shortness of breath or chest pain.
- Severe dizziness or fainting.
